2022 INSIDER GUIDE

Mobile Area Fall Camporee

The overall theme of 2022 Mobile Area Fall Camporee will mirror the movie “I am Legend”, where the cities were overrun with zombies, and the Scout Camp was the last safe haven.

Key to success:

- Great secrecy about the actual event will be what makes it great; nobody will know what is going on until after they get to camp
- This Camporee will be a first of its kind, a real horror Camporee. The overall effect we are trying to create is a continuous sense of foreboding, a true feeling of isolation and survival.
- Our scouts should be genuinely freaked out during the event; unexpected occurrences should take place throughout the event, causing a sense of paranoia.
- At the same time, we want the scouts to walk away from this event with a "hell yeah!" attitude, that will reinvigorate them to participate in other events.
- We want to install a sense of absolute fun, while having the pants scared off of them, and yet yearning for more.
- the Scout Camp was the last safe haven

2100-2300		Team Meeting

Friday schedule below

The idea is to have a sense of chaos, the invasion has occurred, Friday will appear rough, and scouts will have to wait (a bit) (shouldn't be difficult)

The MSR leaders are the trainers of the scouts – and we are ourselves just setting up the camp to train

Check in process and processing scouts takes time

We need to create a roped-off area around/including trading post, this will be HOLDING ZONE (see below) scouts should have access to water, crackers, looped -video

Shortly there after, they will be escorted to medical processing, again waiting in line, at the dining room, or outside it

Initially 630-830 as medical check, pack distribution , camp site distribution – we can do this just out side if needed,

After that scouts should NOT be in the dining area but will return upon sounding of the AIRHORN at 9pm

Coach Emily has two components Friday night

Henry will have Video set up

FINAL

We will resume at 9pm in the dining room, first with Coach Emily as Friday's camp director (before she gets afflicted by zombie), video, etc

During cracker barrel

Different Coach will be leading Jell-o station

Troop 85 leaders- Fire station practice

Cure lab (eco-Hut will be open)

Rawhide, t251 g & B, T33 – total 20

STUFF WE NEED

- Shot blast – meet at field/dining room
- LONG BLAST – perimeter breached/remain at campsite await instructions

- Prize/award
- Eagle scouts to be ? guards / zombies
- Scouts need to be informed to arrive 530 pm to 8pm
- Siren/flashing light? Police vehicle
- Copies of
  - Zombie survival handbook
  - Map

roped off area at trading post, video if possible

FINAL

Key Outline:

Friday Night 6-8pm

- We will need 'Security Team' greeting people at the front gate VIDEO 1. They will make all the scouts all get out of the cars and submit to a 'screening' for the zombie virus.

- Pass out Zombie Survival Handbook

- Pass out Map of Maubila

- https://www.facebook.com/photo/?fbid=2651781291527208&set=a.2651710388200965

We will try have everyone arrive within a small-time window

- Upon arrival, scouts will be taken into the dining hall 'briefing' about the oncoming zombie hoards; all before they were even able to go to their campsites to set up their tents!
- The entire Friday night arrival will be scripted like a movie set (we will have manuscript), with staff 'actors' playing various parts, and videos of see example fake newsreel footage (VIDEO 2) showing the zombies taking over America!

We need a list of adults that can be secret zombies for Saturday night

Friday - Day 1 - Quarantine and Isolation

- Zombie invasion in Mobile has occurred
- Scouts will head to Maubila scout reservation for training necessary to stay safe

18:00 - Road to Camp Maubila :

- Troops will arrive at Camp Maubila , and be immediately met by ? RICK
- Troops will be instructed that they are entering a quarantine zone, and they will need to undergo testing before they are allowed to enter the "safe zone".

18:30 and later, as groups arrive…..

We will 'hold' groups of scouts that have CHECKED IN and then, we will do the following in groups of ? 30 as we have enough scouts arrive. A leader will take them from the CHECK IN AREA (before anyone goes to their campsite) to the TRADING POST -roped off area

- Patrols will be directed by military personnel to TRADING POST for holding.
- While they are waiting in a projector will be showing a News channel that will be feeding local news on the infection. HENRY PARKER

  HENRY PARK – VIDEO 1 – INVASION HAS OCCURED

- Refreshments should be available while they wait, and guards should be at every entrance.
- We want scouts to get impatient in here; we want them to get to a point of frustration before we lead them to next station.

- As we receive enough scouts, we will march groups into the dining hall in single formation. The inside of the dining hall we be recreated to appear like a military emergency hospital and entry area into the "safe-zone."

- At this time the scouts will be given an eye exam, "I Am Legend," and told that they can proceed. We want to take a few OA Members or Venture Crew here and intersperse them throughout the line, at random times, people will fail the exam, and be dragged kicking and screaming from the dining hall by military personnel. We want to spread real dread, a feeling of, are we safe?

- Military personnel will hand them a packet of information (campsite location, other event information)

Patrols will then be directed to move on to their locations, set up camp, and return to Dining Hall at "military time." At 2100

2100 SHORT AIR HORN – CALL TO Dining Hall(Evening):

- At this point, all scouts for the evening should be checked in
- As scouts return to dining room (after setting up camp), a heavy military presence should be available to escort them in. Once everyone has arrived:

Camp Director (in Military Uniform):

- Ladies and gentlemen, before we start this evening's debriefing, I would like to lead us all in our National Anthem. The importance of our Anthem will become even more apparent as the evening progresses.

(Leads scouts in National Anthem)

Camp Director Assistant:
(Comes running in through doors, frantically whispers something in directors ear)

Camp Director:

- I have just been informed that our President is sending an emergency broadcast at this time, we will pause our debriefing in order to hear what our President has to say. (Turns to projector and computer, pretends to type in password information, and video begins.) HENRY PARKER VIDEO 2

President of the United States: My fellow Americans, at 13 hundred hours, our president fell victim to this horrible tragedy that has befallen all of us. Under constitutional law, I have stepped in and gained control of our country's leadership.

For those of you who have found sanctuary with local military, I am hopeful that they can protect you. For those of you that are trapped, I will continue my prayers. Do not give up hope, as our nation's military is doing all it can to reach all survivors and protect them.

I know that many of you are in shock. We have all lost loved ones, family and friends, to this devastating virus. At this time, we do not know where it originated, but our scientists are working around the clock to develop a cure. The entire world's population is under attack by this pandemic, and more of our fellow brothers and sisters fall victim every hour.

Again, our nation's greatest minds are working to develop a cure, or a way to counter the virus's alterations. I have been asked to share the following with you, in order to better prepare and keep you alive.

What we do know, victims begin to show signs of dizziness, and they become forgetful. Drastic mood swings, from pure elation to raging anger. Profuse sweating, jumbling of words, a sudden hunger for rare meat. Should you notice any of these signs report them immediately to your military supervisor, or if you are alone, isolate the person immediately, lock them away from all others. Do not allow any bodily fluids, including blood, saliva or sweat from infected to touch uninfected.

Our survival now falls amongst you, the survivors of this holocaust. I leave you now with my prayers and hopes, may God have mercy on us all.(Suddenly we hear noises coming from the side, a scream of stop. A zombie enters frames and attacks President, we hear screams and suddenly quiet. Zombie comes from behind desk, approaches camera ....)

END TRANSMISSION

Camp Director: (At this time the camp director should start showing some signs of infection, sweating, stumbling on words, not being able to stand up without support) As you can see, we are in a fight for our very survival. The human race is about to enter the extinction list, something we never dreamed of happening. Our very hopes lie with you, and others that are in camps just like this around the world.

Starting tomorrow, you will begin training that will help you to stay alive in the woods, and this post apocalyptic world. Survivors, the president and his top scientist sent us formulas and codes that could possible lead to a cure for those in early infection. Each of your groups will be given access to these codes as you prove yourself worthy as production permits the day tomorrow. CURELAB/HANNAH ASHBEE

Okay let's review tomorrow's agenda. (Director reviews rules and stations) –

- Flag Ceremony – TIME 0800
- Introduction to Stations ; 830-1230 : every team has a laminated map
    - Canoe Zombie Traps Put brains (bait) in floating zombie traps out in the lake using canoes.
    - Zombie Tracking Find the Twinkies hidden in the woods, using a GPS or cell phone, a-la Woody Harrelson “ZombieLand”.
    - Zombie Blockade Pioneering skills: build a fort that the zombies cannot penetrate. Scouts will make a barrier to block zombies.
    - Zombie Traps Build various traps to capture zombies.
    - Archery Shooting arrows at pumpkins. Scouts must demonstrate their ability to hit a zombie’s brain with an arrow

Before you go to campsite/and after, the dining room area will remain open – but be aware of your surrounding if you return.

Until lights out,

- in the dining room, acquire knowledge by eating brain and other food
- and practice how fast you can start a fire (TROOP 85)
- you can preview the CURE LAB (ECON HUT)

I just want to close out this meeting by saying .... I want to uhhh, I would like to end this meeting with a...

Military Personnel: General? General?
(Camp director falls to floor, military rushes in. Make sure director is out of view of group. Director suddenly leaps up, fully infected. Military leaps to contain him as he tries to rush scouts. Camp director should be in full frenzy mode, screaming, "Brains, Brains." (Return of Living Dead)

A group hidden should at that time be squirting the scouts with water bottles to simulate the general's sweat and saliva in the front rows.)

Military Personnel: Clear this room now! Evacuate this room! Control the general, do not let him bite you.

(Military clear the room quickly but safely as the other personnel wrestle the general to the ground and try to detain him. Someone yells that they have been bitten.

We want to create a level of confusion here, almost a state of controlled panic, something that makes the scouts feel truly isolated, and yet really not safe.)

Zombie-related Snacks

- Jello Brain Mold (made in advance)
- Zombie Halloween Dessert Nachos

Cracker barrel and Friday Evening events
930-1100 pm

1.0 hours (FIRE BUILDING /Zombie Brain Easting, Cure lab Preview)

- Zombie Brain Eating
  Jell-O molded in the shape of brains.
- The Scouts have to eat them.
- Scouts absorb the knowledge of brains they eat, then are tested for the knowledge they have learned.

Zombie Cure Lab PREVIEW–

Hannah, Jewel, Kevin

INSIDE ECON HUT

- This is where the mad scientists were brewing the 'Zombie Cure Spray', that could be used to defeat the zombies. Spray bottles were filled with water and various colored glow sticks, to denote which 'formula' each one had in it. Only certain formulas would affect certain zombies.

Fire-building –(Friday night practice, Saturday night contest)

Objective: Build a fire that burns through a string. Zombies hate fire. Scouts must prove they can build a fire to ward off the zombies by building a test fire that can burn through a string over the fire within a certain time limit.

I think we could time these

We need more stations- and then have final contest of top 10 scores compete in front of everyone at the campfire

SATURDAY AM

Saturday AM - Day 2 - Survival

- 0600 Scouts eat breakfast on own.
- Military personnel should walk through camps and perform random virus checks. (What would be perfect here is if some volunteer scouts were to infiltrate patrols and groups,lone scouts in need of patrols?, and begin to show signs, and be pulled out during breakfast.)

0800 Flag Ceremony:

(Morning's flag ceremony should be very solemn. New director should now be in place. Flag ceremony performed by a patrol.)

CHUCK KELLYE (NEW / SATURDAY) Camp Director: Ladies and gentlemen, as you witnessed last night, our country, our planet is in desperate times. Leaderless leads to lawlessness. We as survivors must begin to overcome, and rebuild our societies, that means that you will be required to take on the weight of our society, and not only learn, but be able to teach what you learn to survivors you meet along the way. Therefore, you will be participating in drills today to strengthen your abilities, or learn new abilities. Last night you were given Laminated Map and schedules that show drill times, please follow them closely, and be on time. We have many people to train, and want to make sure each of you reach your greatest potential.

	Session 1 0830-0910	Session 2 0915-09:55	Session 3 10:00-1040	Session 4 1045-1125	Session 5 1130-1215

Also, during your successful completion of your drills, our nation's scientists have asked to hand you formulas to help devise a cure for the infected. Your assistance in the measure will be key to our survival.

I am now going to hand this meeting over to our Drill Sergeant who will be your lead through these exercises, and give us a brief update of what is taking place out in the rest of the world. Sergeant.

Drill Sergeant: Thank you director. Currently our outside forces report that no infected have been sighted within 10 miles of our location. As you know, we are surrounded at this time by water on our back flank, so our current guards are stationed towards the entrance, encompassing a 10 mile parameter. Should any infected enter the safe lone, they will be dealt with. But at this time we need you to be on your toes and ready for action. Be at your first station at 8:30 am sharp. Good luck survivors, you are our new recruits in the war against infection!

Finally, Break in training will occur for lunch at 1230-1:45PM at your campsite, but stay alert!!!

Dismissed!

Canoe Zombie Traps (Coach Emily Pharez)

Good morning my fellow Zombies!!

The Zombie paddle will consist of:

1. Teams of 3 paddle their canoe across the lake

2. Time startss when the last Scout gets in the canoe

3. Scouts must transport their Zombie bait to the zombie traps on the opposite side of the lake.

4. When Scouts arrive at Zombie trap, floating in water... bait is deposited in trap.

5. Scouts return to beach/start point.

6. Time stops when last Scout exits canoe.

Bait will be nasty, slimy, maggot coverd guts! A Zombie delight!!

Zombie Delight recipe

1 bag of dog food (gravy style)

2 bags of gummy worms

1 bag of rice

Mix well with enough water to make gravy.

Let bait "marinate" over night.

Serve warm and gooey to Zombie trap

Warning!!

Do NOT consume Zombie Delight as you will become even more delicious to roaming Zombies!!

YIS

Coach

FINAL

Zombie Paddle

1. The “bait” for the zombie traps will be eco-friendly gross/gooey “brains”, “eye-balls” and some “intestines”
2. Scouts will have to paddle out to the traps floating in the water.
   Traps will be constructed with items we already have available.
3. Scouts will have to paddle to the traps to ensure they have necessary “bait” to attract the zombies.
4. Eco-friendly bait will be made from food items that will not harm the lake the fish in it or the lake monster that lives at the bottom.

We are finalizing our event with a few final touches. We all know zombies can’t swim. The event will have the Scouts paddle across the lake to the peninsula. The Scouts must get out of the canoe, put fresh bait in the traps and take out the “old” bait. They must then return to the canoe, paddle back to the dock/beach area.

Scouts must wear proper PFDs.

Scouts will be reminded to take all electronics out of their pockets… that is their phone etc…

Scouts will be scored and ranked on:

Time - How long to complete

Time starts when Scouts are in canoe and last foot leaves the dock/beach. Time stops when Scouts are out of canoe and old bait placed in proper receptacle.

Zombie Tracking – Lawrence Specker Draft 1, Aug. 30 2022

Team: Lawrence Specker, Charles Harris, Bruce Robinson

The core mission for the team is to run three 40-minute sessions on Saturday morning to teach scouts how to enter a GPS waypoint and find it. We will have at least one Garmin handheld, and I think I can secure at least one more. We'll also show scouts how to enter a GPS coordinate in their smartphones and go to it. Key thing here is that we be ready to demonstrate this on iPhone and Android, with the Garmin as an option. Each session will start with training (15-20 minutes) and finish with a search for Zombie "cure potion" or food.

(This is kind of like geocaching without the geocaching app, because you're not supposed to put geocaches on private property. They're not wanted on Maubila because they would draw nonscouts onto the property in search of them.)

We will not be "scout leaders" teaching "scouts." We will be distressed adults imparting some critical knowledge to refugees who know that a zombie panic is spreading across the land and that they have to prepare for a possible attack. I'd suggest that we're local Civil Defense volunteers with information about supplies that were air-dropped by errant drones. The drones dropped them short of Downtown Maubila, but transmitted the drop locations. The caches will be marked by "parachutes" that help scouts identify them once they get close.

ACTION ITEMS:

1. Someone needs to visit Maubila in advance and record waypoints for a variety of cache points. Lawrence likely will have the chance to do this on 9/2 or 9/5. I'm thinking these will be at semi-familiar Maubila locations like the chapel, the arena, the pool, etc., not in the middle of the woods.
2. GPS team members need to practice waypoint entry and search so that they are proficient enough to teach it. GPS team needs to nail down its cover story, attire, etc.
3. Team and program leaders need to nail down the idea of what our scouts are trying to find. I like Ward's idea of a "cure potion" – could be Gatorade or Pedialyte or whatever program leaders want, maybe relabeled. Could be Twinkies or other food.
4. Team needs to establish a concept for scoring the patrols. Do they find their cache? Do they hoard or share? Do they work as a team? Etc.
5. Would be good to find and reproduce some Maubila maps for the classes to use, I assume these exist in some form.

At this point it is unclear whether scouts will be called upon to exercise their skills after the initial training session, but Lawrence will mark an extra waypoint or two just in case that ends up being part of the program. Might be tricky as some of the program will take place at night and that's maybe not the best time to have students stumbling around in the woods.

We need this team to add in 3 hidden cache/of cure potions – scouts will receive a paper clue and possible directions of where to look for potion

Also team will need to provide complicated map to move from starting point to arena, possibly through a 'safe zone' perhaps multiple paths from campsite as scouts try to retreat

Zombie Blockade -- RICK GRIFFEN

ZOMBIE BLOCKADE

OVERVIEW---After a 5-8 minute instructional period, Patrols will have 30 minutes to construct the longest Zombie Blockade in the allotted time.

PARTICULARS---The barricade has to be able to stop a zombie walking a zombie walk. The Zombie will walk into the barricade 3 times to see if the barricade holds.

SUPPLIES---Poles and sapling tree trunks

Twine

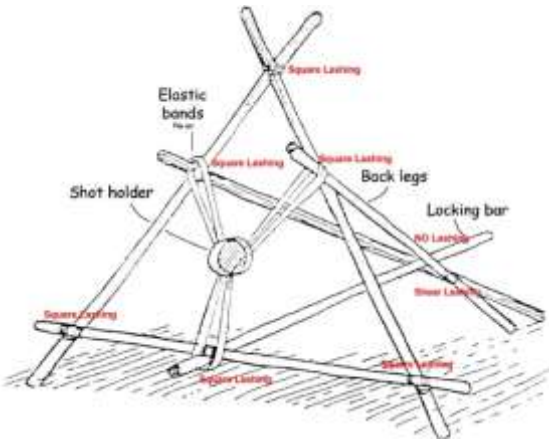
Tape Measurer

Clipboard

Using lashing and knots, patrols will build a barricade that is high enough for a zombie to not step over{waist high}, strong enough to hold together for three attempts at walking into the barricade. They will be scored on the length of the barricade. If any section of the barricade fails the strength test, deductions will be assessed.

SCORING---After the 30 minute build time and strength test, the length of the barricade will be measured. If any section fails the strength test there will be a deduction of two(2) feet from overall length. The patrol with the longest length will be declared the winner.

FINAL



- we need some form a contest -points/skills

Zombie Traps -- Doug Phillips

For the traps, we are planning on keeping things simple. The main trap we will discuss is a pen or corral. This is simply a roped area with an opening on one side. To do this, we will be suggesting the use of clove-hitches and double half hitches. We expect the scouts to build this using their rope, natural supports, such as trees, or man-made supports, such as staves or branches held together with a tripod lashing. With this we will also discuss the two main groupings of traps, bait based and travel-path based.

We want to make sure they have time for both instruction and practice. If we find that we have free time, we will also discuss snares. Instead of using a slipknot, which can bind a snare, we'll use bowlines. Snares aren't as practical in this situation, but I'm sure it will be a little more exciting for the scouts.

The goal of these traps, as we will explain it, is to capture the zombies to be cured, when a cure is found. So no traps to maim the zombies... a zombie without a leg would still come after you anyway.

I was hoping to go with a French trapper theme, but when I looked up what was worn, it could get pricey quick. I think we'll stick with the main theme of playing the part of the military tasked with training the scouts. This will be a bit cheaper and easier.

At this point, we don't think we'll need a budget. We'll use ropes and staves from our units for the instruction.

I tried to find some images of what I was thinking, but this was as close as I could get.

Pen Trap - If we do a gate, it will be a swinging gate, not a drop down.

Meeting in DINING ROOM

Ladies and gentlemen, the situation is worse. We didn't expect it to happen so quickly, but the Zombies appear to be aware of our training site. Zombies are getting close to the perimeter.

Let's look at the new cast (HENRY -Video 3

We as survivors must continue to overcome, and rebuild our societies, that means that you will be required to take on the weight of our society, and not only learn, but be able to teach what you learn to survivors you meet along the way.

The skills you learned this morning (Tracking/Barracades/Archery etc) – are a good foundation – but there is more we need to do.

Therefore, you will be participating in drills this afternoon to strengthen your abilities, or learn new abilities.

Training this afternoon will be here, in the Dining room. And The trainers will arrive shortly. This afternoon you will be trained in two skills

1. Signaling (we can't rely that cell-phone towers will remain operations
2. First aid.

Please keep your Laminated Map

Remember We have many people to train, and want to make sure each of you reach your greatest potential.

Communication Is Critical During a Zombie Attack

Day/date/time: Saturday Afternoon Dining Hall 2:00-3:45
Course time: 45 minutes
Location: Dining Hall
Training Material: paper, pencils,
(100) code guides
(2) sets of semaphore & wigwag flags
(50) crickets
(25) battery powered T candles
Training Team: Pete Haring 251 379 9753 pete.haring@comcast.net
Freddie O'Neal 251421 5568 alfrog1964@yahoo.com

A zombie attack can be devastating to our 'last holdout' scout team causing significant confusion and human losses. A critical communication strategy and training can help protect us all while Maubila is under the threat of being overrun.
Communication considerations during a zombie attack, and other emergencies, include:
1. Media monitoring – Monitoring for Twitter keywords, such as #zombie, #brains, and #bitewounds, can alert the team about a zombie attack before it becomes critical. In addition, integration of geo-tagging information allows you to create a visual map of zombie hot spots.
2. Multi-modal communication-When some contact paths are compromised our visual communication capabilities will still allow you to send messages.
3. Distributed notification – When a zombie attack is imminent, you need to reach scouts, wherever they are in the camp, our last holdout. Maubila the scene, or on vacation. A critical communication platform will allow you to alert contacts within minutes of the first zombie sighting. A streamlined visual communication platform simplifies notifications, distributing alerts to contacts and groups quickly and efficiently.
4. Confirmation of receipt – To ensure that all contacts are notified of critical zombie updates, our communication platform shall visually ensure your messages are received.
5. Training – Since time is of the essence, we will train to

- find out if employees need help
- determine whether contacts have turned into zombies

To achieve our critical mission goals we'll

- develop a shorthand code platform to communicate urgent information
- discuss and demonstrate visual semaphore and wig wag flag techniques and flashing light
- will discuss and demonstrate the 'cricket warning system' used by paratroopers during WWII
- we will delegate communications specialist with each team to test our new skills

First Aid

Session 1: 14:15 until 15:00

Session 2: 15:00-15:45

OVERVIEW

- First aid-
- Stop the bleed
- Basic wound care
- Flushing and cleaning a wound
- Dressing a wound

Basic Skills

Discuss first-aid emergencies that are related to the environment:

- Heat and cold exposure
- Bites from insects and animals
- Contact with poisonous plants

Bandages

- Identify the different types of wounds.
- Demonstrate the use of direct pressure, elevation, pressure points, and tourniquets (which should rarely if ever be used in first aid).
- Discuss the difference between dressings and bandages and show what belongs in a first-aid kit.

Breaks, Splints, and Transportation

- Demonstrate first aid for strains, sprains, and fractures.
- Explain how to handle potential spinal-cord and neck injuries.
- Discuss when and when not to move or transport a victim

BANDAGE RELAY (small, in or out) View Video– Materials: Scout neckerchief or triangular bandage for each patrol– Method: Each Scout selects a buddy from his own patrol and the pair lines up double file, facing an assigned judge who is standing 25 feet away with a neckerchief or triangular bandage. The name of a bandage, either "ankle," "head," or "sling," is called out. When the name of the bandage is announced, each pair of Scouts run over to their judge and correctly apply the bandage to their buddy. The judge checks bandages as they are finished. As soon as a bandage is approved by the judge, it is removed, and the Scout on which the bandage was tied now ties the same bandage on his buddy. When the judge approves both bandages, the buddies run back to their patrol and tag off the next pair of Scouts.– Scoring: Each pair that correctly ties the bandages gets a point for their patrol. The first pair to run back to their patrol scores an additional point.

FIRST AID SCENARIOS modify to zombie to incorporate

- First aid-
- Stop the bleed
- Basic wound care
- Flushing and cleaning a wound

Dressing a wound

• Scenario A: A Scout zigzagging on a bicycle is hit by a car. He receives a cut on his left forearm that severs an artery. He also sustains a simple fracture of his right leg.

• Scenario B: A driver is speeding along a country road when one of his tires blows out. The car crashes into a pole. The driver receives a simple fracture of the right forearm and a gash on his right shoulder, causing arterial bleeding.

• Scenario D: While swimming in a country pond, one Scout jumps from a rock ledge and does not come back up to the surface. The other Scouts notice he is gone, jump in, and pull him out. He is not breathing and has a gash on his forehead that is bleeding profusely.

• Scenario E: A Scout is riding his bicycle when a dog bites him on the right ankle. The Scout swerves to get away, and falls heavily on the road. He lacerates a large area of his left elbow into which dirt and sand are ground. His left wrist is swollen and painful.

• Scenario F: A woman is pinned under a pickup truck that has overturned at the side of the road. When she is released, it is found that she has a cut over her right eye and is spurting blood. Her right ankle is very painful and swelling rapidly.

• Scenario G: On an extremely hot day, several Scouts are sitting on a fence in front of their high school, watching a parade. One of the Scouts falls to the ground. His face is hot, dry, and flushed, and his pulse is exceptionally rapid. His left ear is torn and bleeding profusely.

INTERUPT FIRST AID

Camp Director interrupts first Aid

Perimeter will be breached before midnight

Ladies and gentlemen and trainers – I'm sorry to interrupt the training but, the situation is MUCH worse. We didn't expect it to happen so quickly, but the Zombies are definitely aware of our training site. Zombies are Currently at the perimeter.

Let's look at the new cast (HENRY -Video 4 'breach is imminent'

Please recognize that we still have our perimeter intact thanks to our military, We here at MSR, as survivors must continue to overcome, and rebuild our societies, that means that you will be required to take on the weight of our society, and not only learn, but be able to teach what you learn to survivors you meet along the way.

As you can see recruits, the situation on the outside has reached critical mass, and I have a harsh reality to share with each of you, zombies are 5 miles out from our perimeter. I repeat our perimeter Zombies are 5 miles away from our Perimeter. At this time, our perimeter has NOT been breached. Our current guarding force remains strong

The skills you learned this morning (Tracking/Barricades/Archery etc) – and this afternoon will soon be put to use. We expect the perimeter to be breached by midnight or early day-break.

If this occurs, you will hear LONG AIRHON;

If your hear LONG AIR HORN -stay at your campsite and await further instructions; if you're not at your site—return to campsite ASAP and remain.

Please keep your Laminated Map and Zombie Handbook. If you earned any cure potion, carry those – and keep.

Unfortunately, our current location has been compromised. Recruits, I was hopeful that we would have more time to train you, to hone your skills, but it appears that we have only a few more hours before our "safe-zone" will be penetrated. In order to survive the night, it will come down to each of you to ensure the survival of our group.

It is now time to end the first aid training and return to campsite and prepare for imminent invasion around midnight or early Sunday hours

We no longer have time to waste, return to your survival areas, and prepare yourself for your next set of drills. Recruits, there will be no first or last place this weekend, just survival; you will all have to work as a team to survive. May God have mercy on us all.

For now, at your dinner, secure your campsite, stay together

HEAR THIS: please plan to eat first, secure camp site after dinner (Start clean up by 630 PM)

God be with you.

FINAL

16:00-19:30

- Scouts at campsite/eat dinner
- Make preparation
    - Fortify campsite entrance
    - Don’t leave food
- Review plans

The game will start in the midst of dinner and will (mostly) end at the camp fire

The GPS group/team will be coordinating with us; their team will hide 3 or 4 different ‘cache’ (cure potions, each color) along the scouts’ safe passageway/corridor.

So along the path, while the scouts are using GPS/tracking and signaling they can meet up with other scouts perhaps, avoid zombies/trap zombie, cure infected, test potions all while trying to navigate in the dark (zombies are attracted to light) etc.

20:30 Campfire

- Prior to their arrival, additional camporee staff were dressed in zombie costumes, and each was equipped with a Ziploc bag of fake blood, and a small sponge to squeeze, to bloody their hands.

What's shared publicly

Overview

- Each troop will send their best and most knowledgeable scout to the Econ Hut to test their abilities. These three Mad Scientists are hard at work brewing up an antidote against the deadly zombie virus. Each concocted potion is being tested and examined by these Scientists.
- These potions are not free and it takes brains to make each one of these highly sought after and hard to come by potions. Each time a scout answers a question this helps the Mad scientist to transfer brain knowledge into each antidote.
- The cure lab will only be open during certain times and the potions are only available during those times.

How to earn the potion

- The scout will be given three tries to answer correctly. If the scout gets one wrong, another question will be asked from the following category. The categories correspond to types of potions, easy, moderate, and difficult questions. If the scout gets stumped and unable to answer, the scout will be given only ONE life line. This life line can only be used after answering the first or second category incorrectly. You can choose to use that singular life line on the second or third try.

Choose from: Phone/ask another scout in your troop or attempt to find it in your scout book with a page number.

Tip: It will be helpful for the scout to have their scout book when coming to the Hut.

Will it be potion of weakness?

- Answer one of the easy trivia questions and test your knowledge to gain access to this potion. Then go test it out and report back what you know the potion does.

Will it be Zombie poison?

- Answer one of the moderate questions to gain access to this zombie poison. Once tested on the zombie, let the scientists know how it effects the zombie.

Will it be healing vaccine?

- Answer one of the advanced questions and test your knowledge to see if this is the one antidote that works the best. Take your potion and spray the zombie. Report back what your troop has discovered.

Once you get the potion
It's time for the test trials to see which one will work! Since each one does something different, it may takes a combination of potions. Here's your chance to find out and cure this zombie virus once and for all.

Clues: During Zombie apocalypse training, look for clues within the camp. These clues may lead you to a hidden potion. Also these clues will consist of things the scout learns in other areas.

Rules of using a potion: HANNAH—NEED TO POST IN THE CURELAB

1. Do not spray Zombies in the face. This only agitates the zombie and causes more harm than good.
2. The potions only work when sprayed on the Zombies white T-shirt. This marks that they have been hit.
3. Use a verbal command when using the potion. Like I cure you with Yellow, Red, or Green. Remember the game will be at night and it will be hard to see. This help the Zombies know exactly what color they have been hit with.
4. Do not throw the potion container at the Zombie. We want to cure the zombie, not kill them.
5. Only spray Zombies! Don't waste the potion, the potions take time and lots of scout brain to make the special concoction.

What's top secret

- It will take all three potions to cure the Zombie. The scouts needs to figure out the cure.
- Zombies should know that once hit with all three colors, they are now turned back into human form. It will be dark and we rely on honesty for this part.
- We will be using glow sticks to differentiate the different types of potions and SPRAY BOTTLES WITH FOOD DYE. This helps determine if the zombie has been hit with all three potions.
- Zombies should not share the cure information with non-infected Scouts.
- Infected Scouts should not share information about the cure with non-infected Scouts.

Remember a scout is trustworthy!

The Invasion Begins
By: Andrea Parker
INT. NEWS ANCHOR DESK
WEGB anchor JAMES HAMPTON is on the anchor desk. New reports of a violent mob making its way through the streets of Mobile, Alabama, have just come across the newswires. James is breaking the news on the air. His tone is grim.
JAMES
Breaking news out of Mobile. There have been reports of a large mob allegedly charging through the streets of downtown. WEGB reporter ben Matthews is on the scene. Ben, what do you see?
We only hear Ben's voice-over graphics as he talks. Intercut with shots of James on cam at the director's discretion.
BEN (V.O)
(Serious in tone.)
Well, James, it certainly looks like a mob could have gone through here. There's debris everywhere. The only thing I could possibly compare it to would be the aftermath of a hurricane or tornado. Witnesses tell us just moments ago; the street was filled with what they've called a wave of humanity. One woman said she barely had time to grab her daughter and run from what she described as a violent mob. She, like others, took shelter in a nearby garage.
JAMES (V.O)
Have you heard any reports of injuries?
BEN (V.O)
Yes, several people have been injured. First responders are busily working to treat the injured.
JAMES
We've seen reports on social media that the mob originated from local hospitals. Ben, are you hearing any reports like that on the scene?
BEN (V.O)
There have been some stories from witnesses saying many in the alleged mob were wearing hospital gowns. Some witnesses claim they saw some in the mob carrying iv poles. But whether or not the mobs originated from local hospitals, we have yet to confirm with health officials or law enforcement. It does appear that they're keeping the injured here on scene and are not transporting them to the hospital, so that would lead one to believe there may be an issue with the hospitals. Though it could be because they're all at capacity with the B-121 patients and do not have the ability to take in the victims of the alleged mob attack.

JAMES

Ben, is there any word on whether this could it be connected to the recent spike in cases of the new B-121 virus we've seen locally?

BEN (V.O)

Right now, I think it's too early to say. We haven't been able to talk to healt-

James interrupts Ben

JAMES

(with urgency)

I'm sorry, Ben, but we're going to have to cut you off. We're getting new reports of similar mob-like behavior from other areas in the state. WBOR, our sister station in Birmingham, is reporting a large mob, like the one described in Mobile, to be charging through the streets there. Other mob sightings have been reported in Tuscaloosa, Huntsville, and Montgomery. We're also getting reports of mobs in Baldwin county. We have teams en route to the scenes. And we'll hopefully have more information as soon as possible. If you're just joining us, there are reports of a violent mob storming through the streets of Mobile. Similar reports are coming from other corners of the 3.

state. We've now heard about mobs in Birmingham, Montgomery, Foley, Daphne, Tuscaloosa, and Huntsville. Early reports from witnesses indicate that members of the mobs are running through the streets, acting erratically. Many witnesses have said they barely had time to run and hide as what they call a wave of humanity swept through the street, leaving a path of destruction in its wake. Many have said members of the mob were dressed in hospital gowns, some even armed with iv poles. This has led to speculation that there could be a connection to a recent statewide spike in the new B-121 virus. However, we have yet to confirm any connection with health officials.
James pauses, if on camera, he looks as if he's being told something through his earpiece.
JAMES (CONT'D)
Okay, I'm being told, reporter Ben Matthews has new information. Ben,
what have you learned?
BEN (V.O)
Yeah, James, we just talked to the public information officer for the Mobile police department. He was able to confirm that a mob did, in fact, charge through the streets of Mobile and is continuing to move through the city. He said the situation is very dangerous and that citizens need to remain in their homes or shelter in place where they are. It is not safe for them to be outside. Again, please shelter indoors, whether it be in your home or a place of business. My photographer and I are currently moving to a safer location.
JAMES
Ben, did he give any updates about the injured?
BEN (V.O)

He didn't give very many updates as to 4.
the conditions of victims. But he did say the most common injury being treated was bites.
JAMES
(confused)
I'm sorry, did you say bites?
BEN (V.O)
Yes. Officer Hudson said the majority of injuries being treated in the aftermath of the mob were bites. We talked to a few victims that were treated on the scene. They said they had been walking on the sidewalk when they were attacked by members of the mob. They described it as a frenzied attack. And said it almost felt like they were being eaten. One victim showed me pictures she took of her injuries. There were large gashes on her neck and arms, but I could clearly see the imprints left by teeth. Health leaders have moved all the victims to a quarantine tent in a secured
location for observation.
JAMES
Quarantine tent? Do they think this could have a connection to the B-121 virus?
BEN (V.O)
It appears that could be a possibility. We still haven't been able to get confirmation from health leaders about the connection between the B-121 virus and the mob's erratic behavior, but based on witness accounts, there seems to be some sort of connection.
JAMES
Thank you Ben; please let us know when you're safe. To recap, police have confirmed a violent mob did go through the streets of Mobile. They are warning citizens to stay in their homes or shelter in place. They ask that you do not go outside. It is not safe. Victims injured in the attack 5.

are being treated on scene. The most common injury reported to be bites.
Victims are being monitored in a secured quarantine location. Rumors have circulated on social media about a possible connection to the recent spike in B-121 virus cases. However, we have been unable to confirm that connection with health officials.
We've also had increasing reports of other similar attacks across the state. We are are staying with this developing story and will have all the updates as soon as they come in.
FADE TO BLACK
INT. NEWS ANCHOR DESK SEC DEF
James is back on the anchor desk. He looks a bit more disheveled after the hours of coverage of the increasing emergency.
JAMES (tired, worn, but still professional)
An address by the Secretary of Defense is expected at any moment. It will be the first address by the government since the outbreak began several hours ago. The mob scene playing out across Alabama is apparently playing out in cities around the world. World Health leaders have confirmed they believe there is a connection between the mob behavior and the B-121 virus. Earlier today, a leader with the WHO reported some of the victims of the mob attacks have begun to show aggressive behavior themselves. While we await the address from Washington, we want to check in with our reporter on the ground, Ben Matthews; Ben, what's the latest?
BEN (V.O)
(somewhat panicked, out of breath)
James, the situation has escalated.
It's almost like I'm in a horror movie.
6.

JAMES
Ben, what's going on? Are you okay?
BEN (V.O)
It's truly an insane scene. One I never thought I'd ever see in real life. The bite victims from the mob attack suddenly turned aggressive and began attacking the medical teams!
JAMES
Are you okay?
BEN (V.O)
My photographer and I had to run for our lives. We're currently holed up in a bathroom at a restaurant. Some of the others who escaped with us are attempting to bar the door. But the new mob is trying to force its way in.
Banging and shouting can be heard in the background.
BEN (V.O CONT'D)
James, it's unreal! The only thing I can compare it to, would be, would be zombies. It sounds ridiculous to say, but it has seemingly become reality.
More shouts are heard in the background.
JAMES
Ben, it sounds like you need to go. Stay safe.
James is back on camera. A grim and worried expression on his face.
JAMES (CONT'D)
We'll check back in with Ben later in the newscast. For now, we go to Washington, where the Secretary of Defense is addressing the crisis.
SEC DEV Speech.
JAMES
We have a breaking development. We've just been informed that all heavily populated areas in the State of Alabama are seeing signs of infection.
7.
In what looks like scenes from movies, people acting erratically are running through the streets, destroying property, and attacking innocents in their paths. However, we've been told that a few pockets in the rural areas, including some areas in Clarke County, currently remained uninfected.

However, officials believe it's only a matter of time before the situation escalates further.
FADE TO BLACK
INT. NEWS ANCHOR DESK
James is on the news desk. He looks even more ragged than before. The invasion situation has escalated even more.
JAMES
(tired, grim)
The infection rates of the B-121 virus continue to climb. Very few places remain where no infection exists.
According to health officials, the one remaining safe zone in Alabama is right around the Maubila Scout Reservation in Clarke County. However, officials say it's merely a matter of time before it too falls to the infestation that's sweeping the globe.
Law enforcement continue to urge residents to shelter in place. Do not, under any circumstances, leave your home. It's not safe. Health officials say do not go outside and to stay away from doors and windows. They say to seal off any air from the outside.
They believe the B-121 virus has mutated into an airborne virus.
Infected air from the outside can expose you to the virus. If you can, they recommend moving to a basementlevel room.
James stops. He leans in, listening to his earpiece. A grim look comes over his face.
JAMES (CONT'D)
(grim and serious)
Breaking now, police say the perimeter
8.
around the Maubila Scout reservation has been breached. The last remaining safe space in the state is now contaminated. No reports on if the camp has been breached, but law enforcement say
JAMES (CONT'D)

(said with increased gravity)
A breach is imminent.
